BELLE GLADE — PAHOKEE, FL.

HEAVY TURNOUTS were reported throughout the Glades Tuesday as area voters added their two cents worth to the national decision to replace President Jimmy Carter with Ronald Reagan, along with a number of other decisions such as electing Sam Lovell to the Glades' first own school board seat. Poll workers were saying as early as 1 p.m. Tuesday that more than 50 per cent of the registered voters had already cast their ballots. This was the scene at the time in the Belle Glade American Legion Precinct 37.

Sanders asks city for decision on sealed files

BELLE GLADE—Former City Manager Robert Sanders said Wednesday morning City Attorney John Baker had agreed to his request to ask the city commission Monday night for a determination on whether action would be taken on a search of his files that began six weeks ago.

Sanders' records were sealed Sept. 22 by the commission after then-commissioner and now-Mayor Tom Altman charged Sanders with attempting to steer city actions by not providing complete information on a variety of issues. His files were to be searched for evidence to corroborate those charges.

Sanders said Wednesday he wanted Baker to get the commissioners to decide whether:

- The investigation was completed and he was exonerated.
- The investigation was complete and charges would be filed.
- The investigation was incomplete and more searches would be made.

When he asked for the investigation, Altman charged Sanders with four specific actions:

- Significant overpending on the budget "that reduced our budget process to a farce during the past year."
- Overpending on Airport Park to the point recreational reserve funds, which were supposed to pay for the whole project, were exhausted and some $50,000 was taken from the general fund to complete it without notifying the commission of that fact.
- That Sanders had told the commission, in his presentation of a request for a hike in occupational license fees, that the last rate hike had been in the early 1950's. Altman said the rate increase had happened more recently, he had found. The last hike was in 1953 although, as Altman later pointed out, a number of retail fees were increased because of the increase in their inventories, to which the rates were pegged.
- That Sanders had within wake of controversy Retterer resigns

BELLE GLADE — City Public Utilities Director Kenneth Retterer resigned his position Friday in the wake of criticism of the quality of work he supervised in building racquetball courts at Airport Park.

The criticism, which was extended last week to other work he had supervised over the past two years, began about four weeks ago when cracks were discovered in the walls and floor slab of the courts, which were opened for use this past June.

A study by the city's consulting engineers indicated several areas of problems, including the sinking of the floor slab and footings. The engineer's report estimated repair costs in excess of $25,000 for the building, which was built by city work forces at a cost of $30,000, reflecting the price of materials.

The commission agreed last week to demolish the building, leaving only the floor slab, which will be resurfaced and used for shuffleboard courts.

Mayor Tom Altman indicated he will attempt to get the backing of the other commissioners to build another set of racquetball and handball courts, to be paid off over two years' time.

Acting City Manager Frank Anderson said Retterer delivered his letter of resignation to him Monday. Anderson emphasized Retterer's action was "wholly voluntary" and no pressure had been applied.

"In view of the adverse publicity I've received the past few weeks in the press," Retterer wrote, "and the apparent lack of communication with certain members of the staff, I feel my effectiveness has been reduced."

He asked that his resignation be accepted immediately and wished Anderson and the city "the best of luck."

As Public Utilities Director, a job that was created May 19, Retterer's primary function was the supervision of the city's water and sewer plants and systems.

Anderson said he had appointed Public Works Director Ron Sigmon as the temporary Public Utilities director.

County inmates to work for city

BELLE GLADE — The city commission agreed to the concept Monday night of paying the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office $20 an hour for a crew of 10-15 inmates to do work for the city on weekends.

Steve Lasley of the Sheriff's Office told the commissioners during a workshop that the SO would provide the crew, a deputy sheriff to oversee the men and a truck for the $20 an hour.

The inmates, Lasley said, are men who have been sentenced to the ever-increasingly popular weekend sentences. He said they are sentenced to perform labor on the weekends only.

"This would help (Sgt. Thomas) Tommy Burrus the deputy in charge of the county jail in Belle Glade," Lasley said. "It would help the city and it would help the Sheriff's Office because it's just a matter of time before the Belle Glade jail is sued."

Burrus said the inmates would probably be a mixture of those sentenced by Judge Don Adams in the County court here in Belle Glade and others sentenced by judges in the West Palm Beach area.

Jerry Toles, who made the presentation with Lasley and Burrus, said they had already checked judges on the coast and had gotten their approval. He said they had checked with Judge Adams about six months ago but had tabled the program until they had checked with the city and done more groundwork.

The deputies said there is a possibility that if more work is found for the weekend prisoners, it could act as a catalyst, with judges sentencing more people to weekend jail terms.

In other action, the commission:

- Authorized Ron Sigmon to go ahead with a project, using $100,000 of state funds with matching, in-kind work to be provided by the city and volunteers, to pave and light the 4,000 foot east-west runway at Belle Glade Airport.
- Public Works Director Ron Sigmon said the area would also be fenced in.

He said most of the equipment and men to be provided in in-kind contributions would be volunteered by pilots using the airport.

The project was born out of complaints by those pilots that the runway was deteriorating to the point it was unsafe. The first recommendation was to pave the runway with rock provided by the city. The city will still provide the rock, demucking to rock and Sigmon said the runway will accept any aircraft up to and including a fully-loaded DC-3.

He said about the only catch the city will have to lay out will be $900 worth of surveying. Even the engineering work, he said, has been volunteered by Briley-Wild and Associates, the city's consulting engineers.

Sigmon said the work is expected to begin at the airport on Nov. 17.

SBG, USSC close deal

United States Sugar Corporation spokesmen said Monday, Nov. 3, that the company has acquired South Bay Growers, Inc. and certain related agricultural businesses and landholdings from South Bay's neighbor who we have worked hand in hand with over these many years makes it more gratifying.

We wish for the new owners in conjunction with the present staff the best wishes and continued success for the future, they said.

United States Sugar Corporation is the largest mainland U.S. producer of sugarcane and has substantial cattle operations in Florida and Mississippi. The company's common stock is traded over-the-counter (USUG/NASDAQ).

principal owners, W. W. "Billy" Rogers, Sr. and C. A. "Mutt" Thomas and their respective families. South Bay is a leading Florida winter vegetable grower and processor.

The total price, before certain adjustments, was approximately $80 million and consisted of cash, installment notes and assumed liabilities.

The businesses acquired include vegetable growing, packing and processing facilities as well as over 20,000 acres of vegetable, sugarcane and cattle land located in the Lake Okechobee agricultural

U. S. Sugar's President, John B. Boy, stated that the acquisition "constitutes a significant part of our commitment to diversification within the agribusiness sector, and substantially improves our position as an efficient integrated grower and processor of sugarcane." Boy also commented that, "although vegetable growing is a highly cyclical business, we are confident that this new major activity will be rewarding in terms of both future profits and satisfactory land appreciation over the years."

In a joint statement Rogers and Thomas replied that having been in the vegetable business for 37 years, it was difficult to leave the industry; but having the opportunity to turn over our interests to a region. United States Sugar will also acquire approximately 5,000 head of commercial cattle, farming equipment and extensive agricultural leaseholds as a result of the transaction.

South Bay's vegetable farming and distribution businesses will continue under its present management and name. The acquired sugarcane growing activities are expected to increase the company's total cane production by approximately 10 percent.

I read a news article recently about a certain Nancy Newton starting a women's assertiveness program concerning women's comebacks to catcalls.

According to Ms. Newton, a woman has three responses when a man makes an allegedly offensive remark about her body. She can fix her gaze on the sidewalk and rush on, pretending she hasn't heard; she can spit out her own obscene remark or gesture; or she can walk up to the man, look him in the eye, and — in a voice loud enough for bystanders to hear — deliver a stock response learned in the program.

"I don't like the remark you made. You are trying to degrade me and I want you to stop it."

Well, apparently a friend of mine read the same article the other day and was rather upset. In fact, he is considering starting a program in which males learn to combat female aggressiveness on the street.

"For too long, men have had to walk on the streets as if they were walking through enemy territory. It's like a war zone," he said.

"For a man to be assertive, he has to believe female harassment has got to stop," he said.

"Street harassment will drop dramatically if men respond assertively and women can no longer count on men reacting passively," my friend said, obviously excited about the program.

I asked him why males should say anything when a woman makes a lewd remark. Why not just hurry on, just as we have always done?

"That does not necessarily protect you," he said emphatically. "You're giving 'victim-signals.' You've just given her a lot of signals that you may be easy prey. There are a lot of women who walk around looking for a victim, testing out a victim."

Basically, he said, an assertive response delivered in a strong voice and backed up with a confident stance shows the man is willing to defend his territory and makes the woman publicly accountable for her actions.

"You've embarrassed her. I've been in situations where nearby people applauded," he said.

"How do men learn these techniques," I asked my friend. My curiosity about this program was fully aroused, having been a victim several times recently.

"The men reinforce what they learn in class on 'practice walks' around the city. They also memorize a list of responses that just leap to their minds when they are needed," he said.

The street assertiveness instruction also encourages a man to trust to instinct and not worry that he might offend a woman who seems to be following him by telling her to keep her distance. Men are altogether too polite, my friend said.

"I think one of the greatest dangers to men are the rules of etiquette. We're so polite. It's not terrible to misjudge a woman," he said.

My friend urges men who think they are being followed to cross the street or step into the gutter, face her and tell her to back off.

"Sure, she's going to think you're a strange man, but who cares?" he said. "If she's a threat, you're facing her."

The course will also teach men to meet women's eyes briefly as they walk, he said. This gives men an

Lions Club Turkey Shoot Nov. 21, 22, 23

The Pahokee Lions Club is sponsoring a turkey shoot Nov. 21, 22 and 23 in Pahokee.

The members are asking for donations of $2 a round for the shoot and contestants will be eligible to win a 12 gauge shotgun.

Member Duncan Padgett said the club will also be sponsoring a law enforcement marksmanship contest at 4 p.m. each day.

The drawing for the shotgun will be held Nov. 23, Padgett said, and entrants need not be present to win.

More than 50 turkeys will be given away at the event.

air of confidence — but, he added, it's often the toughest part of the course. Most men, he said, think that looking at a woman, however briefly, will be interpreted as a "come on."

My friend said his course will also teach men confident body movements (a brisk walk, for instance, with head held up and eyes looking ahead, not down) and facial expressions (observant, not smiling at every passing woman) that will not be misinterpreted.

"We smile and smile and smile. When we're nervous, we smile. When we're terrified, we smile," he said. "It's not going to work if you're smiling while you tell a woman to leave you alone."

At this point, I felt it was my duty to defend the female viewpoint.

"It seems to me a lot of women make these remarks not to harass, but in appreciation. How will the men in your course know which is sincere and which is harassment?" I asked him.

My friend was indignant in his reply.

"Women who make remarks about men's faces or legs or chests or anywhere else often defend their comments as terms of appreciation. Most men regard such remarks — and stronger, obscene comments — as public harassment and my course is designed to do something about it. Men are tired of being sex objects."

"It isn't easy to learn. Men aren't used to being assertive, especially on public streets, toward strange women," he said.

I sure couldn't argue with that kind of logic.

Library grant insured

BELLE GLADE—A controversial $6,000 state grant to the Municipal Library was insured during a workshop Monday night when the city commissioners decided to use part of a refund on three state insurance policies to make up the difference.

The grant has been discussed for more than two weeks by the commission and at one point it appeared to have died when the commissioners were informed by Librarian Phyllis Lilly that she would prefer not to use part of the library's book fund as matching funds.

Musings on the unknown

Some things to ponder:

- A date with Bella Abzug, Abzug for president. Come now, this isn't as far fetched as it seems. In her day, Bella was probably a sweet little thing. We know that she married and had children. She brought hate back into fashion. Even got elected to Congress. She also got defeated two years later.
- This and the scrapes that follow may seem improbable, even crazy, but then remember the source.
- What if Eve hadn't taken that first bite? Don't lose any sleep over it, but where would that have left the rest of us?
- What if the Pilgrims had landed at Palm Beach rather than Plymouth? Would the Puritans have yielded to a decadent life on the Gold Coast beaches, drinking Pina Colodas and oyster roasts? What would that first Thanksgiving have been like? Instead of pumpkins and turkeys for Thanksgiving, coconuts and mullet might have become a national staple.
- The Spanish Armada winning, English might be one of the world's dead languages now.
- A world in which horses were never created. That would have probably upset the structure of everything as we know it. Cowboys would be lost without their trusty steeds. Churchill Downs would have to find some other animal to race. The first train couldn't have been called the Iron Horse. Perhaps there would have been the Iron Cow. There would have been no Tony Express. "Urban Cowboy" would never have been made.
- A career for Clark Gable, and Robert Mitchum had movies never been invented. What would these and the other people who made their names in the movie industry have done?
- Geniuses in India and China who were never recognized and never were able to produce the cure for cancer or the time machine they were capable of. Logic tells us that the world's two most populous countries must have produced a certain number of geniuses. The law of averages says this must be so. But, because of the caste system and the hopelessness which existed in the countries for centuries, there was no way for the genius to be realized.
- The courage of the first persons who slurped down raw oysters, clams or scallops.
- How Karl Malden's nose got in the shape it's in.
- Being elected president. A lot of other real people have done it in the last few years.
- Spending your entire life on the edge of the Sahara, fighting starvation. And you thought you had it hard?
- Your one shot at life was a sugarcane plant at Shawnee Farms. Your current existence is sounding better all the time, isn't it?
- A world without hugging and kissing? No, I cannot imagine that one.

Observations on our flatlands

It's like a desert - flat, endless, mysterious. It's just like it, except it's not dry, but rather damp; verdant. It's a stretch of road between LaBelle and Highway 27 north of Clewiston. Highway 80.

I've been driving that stretch of highway four times a week since I started working in LaBelle, and it amazes and awes me each time I drive it. But the most interesting, and sometimes beautiful, time to drive that stretch is at night.

I just thought I'd share with the citizens of western Hendry County my impressions, through the eyes of a transplanted northerner, of that seemingly endless drive at night.

The drive up 27 from Clewiston is typical four-lane driving. Unimpressive. But the minute I pull off onto 80 for that 21-mile drive to LaBelle, things change. Drastically.

Like a desert, the land around Highway 80 comes alive at night. One night, around 10 p.m., I got a show of heat lightning. The bright flashes lit up the sky like strobes, and in turn lit up the land. It was a disco-desert: slide show, mesmerizing. It was difficult for me to keep my eyes on the road instead of on the land spread out around me.

Another night, around 9:30 p.m., I got a good look at an expansive panorama spread out above me. It was absolutely clear outside, and the stars dominated the sky. The Milky Way made a flickering, creamy picture above me. I saw the big and little dippers, what I call "the king" with the three bright stars for the belt, and Cassiopeia off in the corner. Of course, it's surprising that I didn't get in an accident that

Pickup mess from the campaign

The November 4 general election is over. All over the country people have contributed to the votes that put many men and women in office. All the fuss and huzzle is over.

For months before the general election, citizens have been assaulted by billboards, signs and bumper stickers everywhere, plugging certain candidates for certain races. They're everywhere - on lamp posts, on streets signs, on cars and buildings.

But the election is over. The campaign material littering the streets of this country must be cleaned up, and it will take a tremendous effort to get the job done.

The easiest way to clean up the campaign material is for every citizen to take down and dispose of properly any materials he or she runs into in the course of the day. Or in the course of the next few weeks, however long it takes.

But this country can only be as beautiful as the people make it, and it's time to get to work. It would help tremendously if the candidates and those who put up the materials would take them down, since they know where they are. But these people are bound to miss some. The citizens can help, though, by taking down those they see, and picking up the materials that are littering the street curbs and green lawns.

It isn't really all that difficult. Then, when visitors come through your town, they'll get an eyeful of what a town can look like down here in Florida - palm trees, Florida-style buildings and clean highways and streets. But no messy campaign materials flying around.

Halloween is sign of the times

It seems that every year when Halloween rolls around, a sense of dread comes over citizens, government officials, and law enforcement officers.

It's not out of fear of witches and goblins or of the tricks that legitimate little trick or treaters might play if they aren't rewarded with sweets when they come knocking.

It's a fear of mischief wreaked by adults and teenagers. No where in the Halloween manual does it say that the Witching Hour provides any excuse for egg tossing, window breaking, property damage, or - as happened in one community several years ago - setting a house on fire.

Mischief is too kind a word for those kind of activities.

Vandalism is a better word. The malicious and criminal destruction of property belonging to others is what vandalism is all about.

We commend the groups and government bodies who recognize this problem and take steps each year to minimize its impact.

Nevertheless, it is sad that resources must be expended to head off the destructive output of idle energy.

It's too bad that our delight in the antics of little trick or treaters, in jack-o-lanterns, and ghost stories on Halloween has to be diminished by this problem. For the time being, it seems this problem will continue to be another unfortunate sign of the times.

Emergency room needed at Hospital

The Southwest Palm Beach County Hospital Board of Trustees are to be commended for their action last week in giving the green light to plans for a new emergency care suite at the southeast corner of the hospital.

The plans presented to the board last Tuesday by Hospital Administrator Patrick Lennon were based on a trauma care center in a St. Louis hospital where Glades General Hospital Emergency Services Director Dr. Richard Thomas served before coming to the Belle Glade-South Bay area . . . only scaled down to the needs of this area.

While he was cautious about the number of patients which could be treated at one time in the planned facility, in relation to the existing emergency room, it was obvious the numbers would more than double.

More important, the quality of patient care in the new facility, on the face of the plans, would be increased considerably because of the design of the suite and the inclusion of services in the emergency suite, some of which are scattered through other places in the hospital and some of which do not at present exist.

The decontamination room, for example, could prove of particular value in this area, what with the possibility of patients arriving at the hospital who had been subjected to large amounts of pesticides.

The proposed facility would be welcome even if it meant the taxpayers were going to pay for it. Lennon explained it would be paid for through revenue bonds, which is better yet.

Other pluses for the area include the possibility that the board may hire two more junior physicians to provide a 24 hour a day on-premises coverage and that such a facility might draw other, needed, physicians to the area.

First Impressions

night for craning my neck to look upwards and sideways. But I couldn't pass up the chance to see that Now, everytime I drive that road, I see a little bit more of southwestern Florida. The low bushes and flat, damp grazing land, the swampy land, the ridges of trees and the lonely great oak trees. It's all there, stretching for miles and miles ahead. Sometimes I think it would be possible to see from the eastern end of the county to LaBelle, it's so flat.

I don't know the names of any of the animals. I don't know the species of trees or the animals, but I appreciate their uniqueness.

Last Monday night, Oct. 27, I got a chance to see several animals. I had only seen them lying dead on the highways before. Or being torn apart by the numerous buzzards that circle the land in that area. But this Monday night, I saw one alive - an armadillo. I had my bright headlights on, speeding leisurely down the highway with no traffic ahead of or behind me. And this creature waddled hurriedly out onto the highway, first at the edges of my lights, but I caught up to him, and didn't swerve hard enough. The first armadillo I've ever seen alive was soon dead. The thud underneath the car vibrated through me and it made the rest of that drive melancholy for me. I was hummed, even though every drive I take on that road shows me several creatures lying in wait for the buzzards.

And the buzzards are another thing. Before I moved down to the Sunshine State, I had never seen a buzzard. The first one I saw was flying, and I commented to someone what a beautiful, graceful bird that was in the sky. I got a wry look for that comment and was told the "beautiful" bird was a buzzard. The next time I saw a buzzard it was on the highway literally ripping apart an animal carcass. Wonderful. Nice birds.

Highway 80, the deserted stretch going to LaBelle to Clewiston, is littered with carcasses, and so littered with buzzards! Hungry, gnawing buzzards. But even those ugly birds have a purpose. Just think of all the creatures killed by automobiles - and who's going to dispose of the carcasses? The buzzards.

My night ride will continue each Monday night for as long as I work as the editor of the Caloosa Belle. And each drive will show me more of this land that I'm now calling home. I haven't tired of seeing this land yet. Maybe there will be a time when I'll fall to see the buzzards, the odd animals, the lights in the skies. But that won't come for a while, at least. I hope. The newsmen make that long, lonely ride home a new experience each time.

CRACKER CRUMBS

By Dean Jones

Boy, Trick or Treat takes on a whole 'nother meaning after Friday.

You might even say my Halloween was hairy . . . or hilarious, depending on your point of view. Definitely hilarious from the point of view of Ocean Landings Resort up in Cocoa.

Not that the whole thing started on Halloween. Huh! It started about a week ago with a letter that handed me through a range of emotions, starting with the suspicious I usually reserve for sale pitches, through doubt and finally to the point where I thought I might even be shedding my image as a loser.

The letter, and I've heard over the past couple of days that a number of people in town are getting them, informed me I was the lucky winner of one of several gifts and the only thing I had to do was toddle up the road to sit through a sale spiel for interval ownership at aforesaid Ocean Landings Resort.

Oh yeah, I also had to be 21 years of age; my credit had to be good and I had to bring my wife. Well, an accident of birth qualified me for at least one of those requirements (I was born early enough; the second was in question but it was a moot question because I certainly didn't intend to squander my hard-earned earnings on a resort condominium in Cocoa Beach) and so far as the third went, I never have been able to find anyone claiming to be or want to be my wife . . . so I went by myself after I'd failed to talk Alma into going along to play Mutt and Jeff for the salesman.

Now, just in case you might've gotten one of those letters, or one in the near future, the gifts from which mine was to be chosen included $2,500 cash, $1,000 cash, a 19 inch color television, a food processor, a 14 karat solid gold bracelet, a microwave oven, a 66 inch home video center and something called an RCA Selecta-vision . . . whatever that is.

The letter made the point that I had definitely won one of those little items and, if I could get there on a weekday, I could have another, unspecified gift.

Right? Well, I want to say that somewhere I knew I was gonna win that gold bracelet, if that is, I was going to win anything at all. I just knew it because I also had a gut feeling it was going to be, as the salesman later put it, flimsy.

So what happened? You got it. I drove up there, took the grand tour, sat through the sales spiel, and the spiel that began with the assumption the victim was going to buy. It's just a question of which model, which weeks and whether he's gonna pay cash or finance it with an easy, whopping down payment and five years of indentured service to pay it off.

It wasn't until after I'd told the salesman I wasn't interested, at least not that day, that he went into another room and brought back a list of the "gifts" along with control numbers which he matched up against the "control number" at the top of the letter.

Lo and Behold! Surprise, Surprise, Surprise! De- victory again.

I couldn't get over the excitement of knowing my gift was a 14 karat solid gold bracelet . . . although the salesman, knowing I'm a single man, offered to make it a battery powered vacuum cleaner instead; you know, one of those lightweight jobs you use on your wife's again.

I decided against the switch, not because I had changed my mind about the worth of the bracelet but I wanted to see how massive a piece of gold this thing was.

How massive was it? Well, let's put it this way: I gold was dynamite, you couldn't blow your nose with it.

I had a good friend who happens to be a jeweler check it out for me and told me his store retailed a bracelet similar to this one for $26, only theirs' was considerably heavier. He also said the trinket was probably worth about $3 to Ocean Landings and I interpreted that to say there was probably about $4 worth of gold in it.

Considering the price of gold on the London market was down to about $634 an ounce Monday morning, I figure that means there was somewhere in the .006 ounces of gold in that valuable little gift and that ain't about to cover the price of the gasoline I burned to get up there to listen to the spiel and drive back.

I don't think it would hardly cover the hamburger and Dr. Pepper I bought for lunch while I was there and it may not even have covered the wages I would've lost if I were paid by the hour.

Like I say, Trick or Treat took on a whole 'nother meaning for me this Halloween but the day was appropriate for that kind of stunt.

But, what the heck, it was in character. For the first time in number of years, I was ready for the little monster (Well, some of 'em are supposed to be monsters) when the kids make their annual trick or treat rounds and the trip to Cocoa had a fitting excuse when not a single one, for the first time in several years, came to my door.

Oh, by the way! I've already had several mentions about what to do with my new bracelet. My first idea was really impractical because it wasn't the salesman's fault, not really, and it wouldn't cause him any discomfort anyway.

A couple of suggestions included having it melted into a ring for my left ear (not enough metal for that) or I could use it as leg irons for a mosquito (not enough weight).

What I've finally decided to do is hold onto it. I figure it'll make a fine gift for one of the staff members of the family for April Fool's Day. That or I'll give it to some other lady when I want to get across, in the most graphic way, how little I think her.

GCI investigation ends

An investigation into the recent disturbance at Glades Correctional Institution has concluded and, according to Palm Beach County Sheriff's Detective Harry Driggers, two men are being held without bond pending trial.

The suspects, Gilbert E. Mann, 21, serving a seven-year term for burglary and J. Edward Berry, 35, serving a five-year sentence, were arrested last Wednesday and charged with aggravated battery after a prisoner was stabbed and a guard injured when fights broke out last Tuesday night.

Driggers said a weapon was found, which may have been used in the stabbing.

"We did find one kid during the investigation. However, I have not seen the weapon and cannot say for sure that it was the weapon used in the incident," Driggers said.

Sanders

held information and a recommendation from golf pro John Wright concerning a gang member. Altman said a memo from Wright to Sanders indicated the memo the commissioners eventually bought wouldn't do the job and didn't meet specifications. That allegation later turned out to be true. Sanders said that was an administrative decision.

Sanders said this week that he has heard the investigation of his files has been completed and that the city doesn't intend to do anything with the information found by City Clerk June Boglioli.

"If they want to charge me with something," he said from his office in Key West, "fine. That'll be something I can defend; but they've got me on a fence and it's affecting me down here. I just want them to do something, or drop the whole thing."

Sanders said the city has had long enough to search his files and he thinks if something has been found, it would have been reported by now. He said what he doesn't want to happen is that if nothing is found, the whole thing would be dropped quietly, without exonerating him.

Although black and white inmates were involved in the melee, the disturbance was not racially motivated, Driggers added.

"It was just a case of someone popping his mouth off at the wrong time," Driggers said. "Anytime you are working close quarters like this you're bound to get on someone's nerves sometime and fights will break out. However, there was no racial tension."

Prison guard James Guy, who was hit over the head with a stool during the incident, was released from Glades General last Tuesday while the stabbing victim, Raymond Young, 26, is in "good" condition at Glades General.

Driggers made more than 60 inmates were questioned during the investigation.

Driggers said he would take five years to complete. He said the WMD has already spent $2.2 million, not counting the time and labor by staff members, and more than half the proposed campground area is still under water.

He said the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation caused a year's delay on permitting. He also said the project has proven much more expensive than originally anticipated because of inflation and spiraling construction costs.

The full project, which was scheduled to be done in two phases, will see about 300 campsites in the new camping area. In the first phase, which is scheduled to be open for occupancy by Nov. 15, has 100.

Mayor Tom Altman said it's usually hard to build up funds like that when there are always pressures to spend them. He asked Schiller and Brown if the District might consider financing the project and getting on with it, pointing out that inflation running the way it is, that might save money in the long run.

Schiller said he didn't think the board of directors would go along with the financing idea but he would ask. He also said he didn't know if the board would go along with paying more than the main street and the boat ramp area but he would check on that.

He said he would also pass along a proposal by Public Works Director Ron Sigmon that if the District will furnish the stone and oil, the city would use its equipment and manpower to double-stroke the secondary streets in an effort to hold down dust during the winter

Florida Water Management District, getting the assurance from Fred Schiller that the entire project will be completed before the year 2000, although Schiller wouldn't give a target date to substitute for the one given the commission by former City Manager Robert Sanders.

Sanders reported to the commissioners some months back that he had been informed by a WMD official that the marina campground project won't be complete, "for 20 or 25 years" but Schiller said he didn't know who said it and that it may have been said in jest.

Schiller recalled the original estimate for the project was that it would cost $2.5 million and

Pharmacy & Your Health

AN INTERESTING COMBINATION

Antacids are used to relieve indigestion, help reduce pain and, hopefully, promote healing of gastrointestinal ulcers.

Many antacids contain the basic salts of metals that are not absorbed well into the blood stream. When these basic salts combine with stomach acid, the acid is neutralized.

Two of the more common metal salts found in liquid and tablet antacids are aluminum hydroxide and magnesium hydroxide. When either of these materials are used alone as an antacid, problems may occur.

Aluminum salts (in this case aluminum hydroxide) tend to be constipating. This may be due to the effect of aluminum as an astringent on the lining of the intestine.

Magnesium salts, on the other hand, tend to have a laxative effect. Magnesium hydroxide in suspension by itself is known as milk of magnesia. When an appropriate amount of this suspension is taken, a laxative effect occurs.

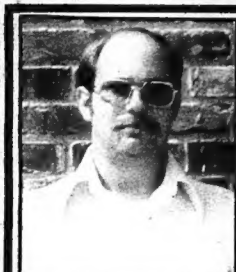

By combining aluminum hydroxide and magnesium hydroxide in one preparation, the constipating effect of the aluminum is cancelled by the magnesium hydroxide present. The laxative effect of the magnesium hydroxide is offset by the aluminum salt that is present.

The result? An interesting combination is produced that, hopefully, will produce neither constipation nor stools.

Agriculture is still on top! Although only about 4.5% of the population today work on farms, another 25% are employed in related industries. Food transportation, marketing, financing, manufacturing, chemical development and textiles are a few businesses which push the agricultural industry to the nation's number one position, accounting for nearly 25% of the Gross National Product. As bad as things have been economically, Americans still spend only about 17 percent of their income after taxes for food. In a majority of the world's countries the amount of income paid for food exceeds 40%. In just 25 years the percentage of disposable income spent for food in the United States has decreased more than 28%! Equally as dramatic as the decrease is the increase in selection and quality of foods available. . . . last time anybody counted there were better than 11,000 food selections.

Mason enjoys roll teacher/player

FAYETTEVILLE—Barney Mason, Jr., a former Glades Central Community School football player, is into education — and not just his own.

Mason, a 6'4", 220-pound defensive lineman at Fayetteville State University in Fayetteville, N.C., enjoys spending his free time working with elementary school kids and hopes to make a career of it.

"I just like to work with and help kids from kindergarten to fifth or sixth grade," Mason said.

A junior majoring in physical education, Mason graduated from Riverdale High School in Ft. Myers after transferring from Glades Central his senior year in high school in 1977.

Playing under coach Willie McDonald at GCCH, Barney gave up an earlier scholarship in football after school and attended Edison on a basketball scholarship.

"Things didn't go too well," Mason said of his days at Edison. Former FSU assistant Coach Frank Merchant was in the Sunshine State recruiting players and Mason's high school coach, who was aware of Mason's unhappiness with basketball, told Merchant about his former star.

Mason joined the Bronco program last year under ex-coach Raymond McDouglas and was under the impression he would be one of the biggest runningbacks in Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association history. He found out different as he was soon switched to the defensive line.

Mason found out the actual transition wasn't as tough as waiting for the coaches to decide whether to use him as defensive end or tackle.

Barney, a junior at the university, is surrounded by many of his former schoolmates from Glades Central attending the university.

Donald Andrews, Freddie Garrett, Joseph Byrd, Sheila Ashley, Cynthia Harrell, Robert O'Neal, Willie Tyler and Richard Ford, all former athletes at GCCH, are attending the university on athletic scholarships.

Mason is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney (Margaret) Mason, Sr., of Alva, and his mother teaches at Gladeview Elementary School in Belle Glade.

Halloween a treat for Raiders

BELLE GLADE—The playoff-bound Glades Central football team can't relax Friday night in their homecoming game against once-beaten Ft. Pierce Westwood but after a pair of victories last week, the Raiders should be high enough to whip anyone.

Glades Central couldn't seem to get cranked up during first half play in their game against Suncoast, seeming determined to refuse any number of chances to put points on the board but Randy Rutledge engaged the Raider running gear during second half play, taking a 26-15 decision.

And that only put them in the mood for their second victory of the night last Thursday, which came with a little help from unwitting friends, the North Shore Mustangs, who gave Glades Central a needed leg-up for the playoffs by a 13-6 win over Atlantic, putting the Mustangs into the winner's column for the first time this year and eliminating the need for a sudden death playoff after the regular season.

Coach Ben McCoy's Raiders showed for the second consecutive game that they're not a one-man team, as Rutledge and Willie McCoy split the infantry attack again in the absence of Greg Bain. Rutledge, seeing action this year for the first time on the varsity team, carried the ball 22 times for 95 yards and two touchdowns while McCoy carried 13 times for 68 yards and a TD.

Unfortunately, McCoy was in on the opening score late in the first quarter, set up when teammate Michael Stinson fell on a fumbled Suncoast ball, stopping a Charger threat on the Raider two-yard line.

One play later, quarterback Jacob Rhames handed off to McCoy, who was tackled in his own end zone for a Suncoast safety and the Chargers led, 2-0 with 5:56 left in the first period.

It looked for a moment as though that slim lead was going to be extended on the next play when Glades Central kicked off from their own 20-yard line and Suncoast wide receiver McArthur Brookings took the ball on his own 22, picked up blocking down the sideline and swept past the Raider bench, smoking past would-be defenders into the end zone.

An official offered a reprieve, though, when he threw a flag on the Suncoast 41, where he said Brookings went out of bounds. The Chargers netted four yards in three plays and punted down to the Raider five on fourth and six, setting up a ten play, 87-yard play from the Raider 13.

The drive started when McCoy picked up seven yards to his 20. Rutledge drove to the 42, McCoy ran two yards to the 44, a penalty carried the ball to the Suncoast 40. Rutledge tackled on another five to the 35, McCoy went to the Charger 29, Rutledge went to the 27, Rhames connected with Ray McDonald to the 13. Rutledge drove to the eight and then the six and finally carried the ball in to paydirt from six yards out, scoring the Raiders' first TD with 11:56 left in the second period.

Rhames' kick was good and the Raiders led, 7-2. The next score came four minutes later, after Suncoast drove from their own 30 to the Raider 47 before punting out to the Raider 27-yard line. It looked as though the Raiders were on their way back when McCoy carried for ten yards and a first down at his own 37.

On the next play, Rhames bumped into lineman Stanley Johnson while looking for a receiver. The ball squirted out of his hand at the 32 and Charger James Exum scooped it up on the bounce and raced for the end zone. The kick was good and the Chargers ended the scoring for the first half, carrying a lead of 9-7 for the 7:14. The Chargers did threaten once more, with seconds remaining in the half, when they reached the Raider 25 but an attempted field goal went wide.

Suncoast came out in the second half seemingly as eager as ever to throw the game to the Raiders, with Jerald Braswell fumbling the ball on the opening kickoff at his own 25-yard line.

The Raiders attempted to oblige the Chargers but eight plays and two penalties later, they turned the ball over on the Suncoast 13 after failing to convert on a fourth and 18 situation.

Suncoast charged right back, however, and determinedly fumbled the ball again, coughing it up to the Raiders on the 13. This time, Glades Central players shrugged their collective shoulders and accepted the gift, with Rhames ramming the ball in from the one four plays later. His kick was wide though, and the Raiders picked up the lead for good, 13-9, with 6:40 left in the third period.

The Raiders scored again four minutes later, taking a punt on the 50 after holding Suncoast for three plays. McCoy picked up ten yards and a first down when he ran to the Charger 40, and two plays later, caught a Rhames pass for a 40-yard touchdown romp. Jeffery Willis bobbled the ball on the PAT and attempted a pass for two points, but failed, leaving the Raiders with a 19-9 lead with 2:50 left in the third period.

The next score was set up after the Raiders held Suncoast on a fourth down situation at the Glades Central 26, starting a 74-yard drive in six plays, kept alive when the ball squirted out of the hands of Rutledge on a blast through the middle of the line and tackle Carey Stanley picked it up and plowed through seven yards of tacklers before going down at the Suncoast 27.

Two plays later, Rutledge swept 13 yards into the end zone and Rhames kicked the extra point to put the Raiders ahead, 26-9 with 9:41 left in the game.

Charger quarterback James Hunter took to the air on Suncoast's next possession, starting at his own 31-yard line and completing four of eight consecutive passes, the last a six-yard zinger to tight end Richard Relford, one of the few bright spots for Suncoast throughout the night. An attempt to pass for two extra points failed, however, and the final score of the night, 26-15, was reached with 7:33 left in the game.

Suncoast did threaten once more during the game, penetrating to the Raider 15-yard line before turning the ball over on downs with 1:37 left in the game. The Raiders simply held onto the ball for three more plays, reaching their own 28 before the final gun.

The Raiders' game Friday night had several interesting points. It's homecoming for the Raiders. Both teams have been defeated once, with Cardinal Newman, the one team that beat Westwood, having been defeated by Glades Central and Atlantic, the one school to defeat the Raiders, having been defeated by Westwood.

Westwood, Cardinal Newman and Glades Central are now in a three-way tie for the conference championship, a tie that will be broken Friday night, leaving the possibility of a two-way tie at the end of the year between Cardinal Newman and either Glades Central or Westwood.

Finally, the Friday night game will be a preview of coming attractions because Westwood has also clinched its District 13AAA title and the Panthers and the Raiders will meet again, on Nov. 28 at Glades Central, for the regional championship playoff game.

On the other hand, Glades Central has already eliminated Cardinal Newman for the District 14AAA title, clinching it Thursday night on the strength of North Shore's upset over Atlantic, which completely eliminated a three-way tie for the district championship.

Finally, the Friday night game will be a preview of coming attractions because Westwood has also clinched its District 13AAA title and the Panthers and the Raiders will meet again, on Nov. 28 at Glades Central, for the regional championship playoff game.

IT WAS AROUND END and away we go for Ray McDonald (50) as he picked off punt return and made yardage for Glades Central during the Thanksgiving Eve trick or treat special against Suncoast. CDS faces Game of Year

BELLE GLADE — The Christian Day School football team is facing its biggest game of the year Saturday when it faces St. Edwards of Vero Beach for the second time this year.

Crusader coach Gus Harmon said the game will be played behind St. Peter's Lutheran School at 11 a.m. and could mean CDS will have a winning season if his charges can pull off an upset win and finish out the year with another win over Broward Christian on Nov. 15. CDS has already beaten Broward once this year.

Despite the fact that Christian Day has won only three games this year, Harmon noted they have outscored, outtackled and outpassed their seven opponents if one considers total points and yards.

He said the Crusaders have outscored their opponents 141-133, out-rushed them 1,463 yards or 768 yards and out-passed them 430 to 424 yards, completing 45 of 104 passes compared to 26 of 60 for the opposition.

Individually, Alex Morales leads the Crusaders in scoring, picking up 49 points on eight touchdowns and a kick for extra point. He is followed by Ronnie Cameron with four touchdowns and four extra points for 28 total, and Kent Davis with four TDs and two extra points for 26 points.

Morales also leads the team in rushing, picking up 588 yards in 43 carries, and the team's passing, completing 41 of 91 passes for 429 yards and a season-game total of 897 yards.

Other rushers are Davis with 292 yards in 41 carries, Ronnie Cameron with 251 yards in 63 carries and Phil Echols with 112 yards in 24 carries.

Tony Duboy is the leading receiver, snagging 11 passes for 179 yards, and Davis has 10 passes for 78 yards.

Davis also led the Raiders in defense, making a total of 83 tackles. He was followed by Cameron and Duboy with 54 tackles each, James Bannister with 53 tackles and Ken Bair with 45 tackles.

Harmon said the Crusaders, after an open start last week, will be challenging their offensive and defensive schemes for St. Edwards. He said he is confident that CDS has a chance for an upset over the Vero Beach school and wins in the Crusaders' final two games would give them a 5-4 record for the season.

A zero first down in the first step late in the game minutes after it is late.

Volleyball tournament is this week at CDS

BELLE GLADE — The Christian Day School girls volleyball team is hosting the District 11A playoffs this week in the Christian Day School gym.

The action started Wednesday with games between Glades Day and Moore Haven, St. Edwards of Vero Beach and Jupiter Christian and Christian Day School and Indian River Academy. Top seeded Benjamin drew a bye in the first round and they start the playoff action today at 8 p.m. by playing the winner of the Glades Day-Moore Haven game. At 7:30 p.m., the winners of the other two games play their semi-final game and the championship game will be played at 8 p.m. Friday.

WESTMINSTER tight end Will Alson is unsuccessful in his attempt to elude tackler Julio Rivas. The Gators stymied the Lion's attempts at offense throughout the game, winning 34-0.

GDS manhandles Lions

Glades Day High School grounded Westminster Academy's air assault Friday enroute to a 34-0 victory over the Lions.

Gator fullback Jason Shelton led the blitzkrieg, six times for 70 yards as the Gators capitalized on several key Lion turnovers throughout the game.

The second-ranked Gators were uncharacteristically slow putting points on the board however. On their first possession quarterback Nacho Bueno fumbled the ball at the Westminster 49. Two plays later the Lions returned the favor and Shelton carved the ball off tackle to the Westminster 34. Bueno again fumbled the ball at the 24 and the Lions marched out to the 43 on two passes to wide receiver Steve Turner before punting the ball away.

The Gators got a good return on the punt to their own 44 and Tobin Vancsey drove through the middle for 11 yards into Lions territory at the 45. Bueno then found wide receiver Richard Schiele open on a deep pattern and Schiele went in for the Gator's first score.

The Lions came right back however and quarterback David Casey quickly completed a 13-yard pass to Turner, putting Westminster in good field position at their own 39. But the GDS defense sacked Casey for a 13-yard loss and on the next play defensive back Gary Herick intercepted a sideline pass intended for Turner and sprinted 21 yards for a touchdown. The PAT missed and the Gators led 13-0.

The Gators did not sit on the 13-point lead though. The Lions stalled on their own 35 and a blocked punt by Herick set up a 13-yard touchdown run by Shelton. A Shelton pass to Greg Chaney went incomplete for the two point conversion and the Gators led 19-0.

The Gators scored again before the half when Shelton broke loose for a 36-yard run to the end zone. Again the Gators missed the PAT. The Lions made their first deep penetration of the night in the closing minutes of the half and looked as if their offense was finally coming alive. However the Gator secondary quickly popped the Lions balloon when Greg Chaney intercepted a 35-yard pass on the goal line. The Gators went into the half leading 25-0.

Mark Allen started the third quarter for the Gators when he sacked Casey for a 5-yard loss. On a fourth and four situation the Lions opted to go for a fake punt, but the play was picked up by GDS and the conversion failed.

After exchanging turnovers-- Bueno fumbled, then Chaney intercepted at the Gator 42, Bueno hit wide receiver Tommy Wilson running a cross pattern and the play went 47 yards for another Gator score. This time the PAT was good.

The Lions returned the kickoff the their own 28 but on the first play, Allen again sacked Casey, this time for a 14-yard loss back to the 14. Westminster tried to bomb their troubles away but the pass went off the fingertips of Turner. Herick blocked his second punt of the night and recovered the ball in the end zone, which tacked on another two points to the Gator total.

Head Coach Byron Walker then put back-up quarterback Scott Meredith in for the remainder of the game, but said Meredith did not have a good game at quarterback.

We haven't spent a lot of time with him at the quarterback position and we just put him and the rest of the second squad in to give them some experience at different positions," Walker said. "If something were to happen to Bueno I feel that Scott could step in and do the job for us," Walker added.

The Lions threatened with four minutes remaining, but another interception by Chaney at the Gator five-yard line pre-

The victory over district rival Westminster puts the Gators in the lead for the district title with only one district match-up remaining at Moore Haven on Nov. 14.

"This Moore Haven game is a real important one," Walker said.

"There's still a possibility the district could wind up in a three way tie," (Glades Day, Moore Haven, Benjamin)

In the meantime the 7-0 Gators are gearing up for Friday's game against central Florida powerhouse Frostproof. Walker said the Gators are not going to change their basic game plan," just say here we are, now come out and stop us."

The game is in Frost proof at 8 p.m.

Westwood crushes Pahokee

FT. PIERCE--The Pahokee High School Blue Devils fell to 3-4 when the Devil lost to the Westwood Panthers 34-0 Friday, Oct. 31.

The Devils working extra hard this week in preparation for homecoming against Jupiter Friday, failed to put together a scoring drive against the Panthers.

In a Suncoast West Conference game the Panthers struck pay dirt when Pahokee fumbled the opening kickoff and the Panthers recovered at the Blue Devil 24.

Although the Panthers failed to capitalize on the fumble, on the next series of play the Panthers got the ball back on the 34 following a 9 yard punt.

Ervin Bennett went over the 1 with 3:30 left to go in the first quarter with Tommie Bennett kicking the extra point to give Westwood a 7-0 lead.

Terry Ingram's 37-yard punt return set up the Panthers second score. Ingram caught the Pahokee Devils off guard when he took a handoff from Esau Pittman and ran from his own 30 to the Blue Devils 33.

Three plays later, Byrd caught his first scoring pass of the night, when Terrence McGriff threw a 27 yard pass.

With 9:55 left before the clock was the Panthers led the Blue Devils by a score of 14-0.

The Panthers did not stop there.

With plenty of time still left before the half the Panthers mounted a 13 play, 72 yard drive for their next score. A 13 yard pass from McGriff to Byrd with 1:06 remaining on the clock was the Panthers last score going in the half, as the Devils blocked the extra point attempt.

The Panthers went into the half with a comfortable lead of 20-0.

In the third quarter the Panthers added to their lead when Byrd caught a 26 yard reception from Bennett substituting for McGriff in the second half.

Neiman kicked the extra point and the Panthers were well on their way to their sixth victory with a 27-0 lead over the Blue Devils.

Bennett connected on his second touchdown of the evening 11 in the third quarter to Pittman, for the Panthers' final score of the game. Neiman again kicked for the extra point and Panthers went on to win the conference game 34-0.

Roadrunners play for county title

BELLE GLADE--The Lake Shore Middle School football team could lock up the county championship today when it plays Roosevelt Middle School but the unbeaten Roadrunners will also play Kennedy next week.

The Roadrunners started their playoff action last Thursday with a 28-0 win over Golfview at Glades Central stadium. They'll play Roosevelt at 3 p.m. today at Roosevelt.

Whitaker said the 28-0 score against Golfview could have been higher but he attempted to hold down the score in the wake of the previous week's 42-0 win over the same school.

"We didn't throw the ball at all," he said. "We kept it on the ground and pretty well confined our offense to power sweeps and running it up the middle."

The power style of play didn't hamper the Roadrunners in their scoring effort, however, and runningback Clifford Lee scored three touchdowns on runs of 40, 70 and 25 yards. Another touchdown was added by Jacinto Perez, who picked off a Golfview pass and raced 60 yards to paydirt. Gary Sielun picked up four more points by running PAT conversions.

He said that style of play was decided on after a telephone call from the Golfview principal.

The Roadrunners have not only won all their games this year, they've only been scored on once...that coming in the form of a single touchdown by Kennedy.

Regatta set for Sunday

BELLE GLADE--About 50 boats, ranging in size from pint-sized outboards to large, fast inboard hydroplanes, will shatter the calm of the rim canal Sunday afternoon in the 14th Annual Belle Glade Regatta, after a two-year lapse by the Chamber of Commerce.

The boats will be entered in a total of 11 classes in three events that get underway shortly after noon. There will be two types of races, with one being run for 30 minutes over a four-mile course and the other covering six laps of the course, all done in heats.

The Chamber's Port Committee will be serving barbecued chicken meals, including a half chicken, baked beans, salad and iced tea for $5 a plate. The meals will be served from 11:30 a.m. until the 500 chickens run out, according to Chamber Executive Secretary Jewel Crane.

The regatta and races will be conducted by the Boat Racing Club of Palm Beach County. Registration will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and a driver's meeting will be held at noon. The drivers won't be participating for the money because there will be an entry fee of $20 for outboard production class boats and the top prize will be $55, with midjet winners netting only trophies. For the inboards, there will be a $50 entry fee and the top winners will get 50 percent of the total entry fees minus an across-the-board 16 percent take-off for the club.

Rainfall deficit is growing

An October four times as dry as the average left the Glades with an ever-growing deficit in rainfall by this weekend, according to Dr. Robert Allen of the Agricultural Research and Education Center in Belle Glade.

Dr. Allen reported his instruments recorded only 1.02 inches of rain last month compared to a 55-year average of 4.61 inches, leaving a deficit of 3.59 inches and a 56-year average of 4.56 inches for the month.

With only two months left in 1980, there is now a cumulative deficit of 11.14 inches, according to Dr. Allen. He said the cumulative 55-year average is 53.16 inches but only 42.02 inches have fallen this year. The 66-year average is 52.96 inches.

The Glades area is now entering its dry season, with only 2.14 inches of rain being the average for November and 1.7 inches in December.

Computer problems mar county election...again

A night of waiting and repeated complications in vote tabulations greeted

Palm Beach County voters awaiting returns from the Tuesday, Nov. 4, general election. With results of 171 of the county's 221 precincts known at prestime, Richard Wille easily won a second term as sheriff, and Paula Nessmith apparently landed a spot on the Palm Beach County School board.

With problems throughout the evening, which eventually halted canvassing, Jackie Winchester, Palm Beach County elections supervisor, said a lawsuit against CES, the manufacturers of the county's computerized voting system, would probably be forthcoming following the completion of Tuesday's election count.

One breakdown of the reader computer early Tuesday evening was solved with an ink clog was corrected, but a more serious problem with the same equipment slowed, then halted the vote count at approximately 3 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Wille, an incumbent Republican, held a 123,163 to 50,211 lead over Democrat challenger Frank Flannery, Tequesta police chief.

Nessmith's lead over her opponent, Dorothy M.

Roberts, was 83,028 to 55,854 for the non partisan District 1 school board seat. In another county race, Republican Bill Taylor was, incumbent Peggy Evatt, county commissioner, 77,719 to 91,147.

Evatt, a Democrat, is seeking a second term to the District 1 county commission seat. In other races for county constitutional officers, David Reid, incumbent Republican property appraiser, was leading Democrat challenger John Underwood 122,298 to 47,928.

Winchester, herself on the ballot, was ahead 99,523 to 67,280. The supervisor, a Democrat, was opposed by Republican George Black.

Dennis Koehler, current chairman of the county commission was ahead of Chuck Potter for the District 3 commission seat. Koehler tallied 97,944 votes to Potter's 76,404. Koehler, a Democrat, was first elected to the commission in 1976. Potter is a Republican.

Bill Bailey, a Republican running for re-election to the District 5 county commission seat, held a 107,241 to 57,194 lead against James D. Whited, his Democrat opponent.

In other school board races, George Bailey led 80,338 compared to the 60,871 received by Joan Colavecchio. Both were contending for the District 3 seat.

Samuel Lovell bested LaVoie Taylor 76,335 to 62,055 for the District 7 seat, which includes the Glades area.

County voters followed state and national trends in voting for Ronald Reagan for president, and giving Paula Hawkins 55 percent of the vote in her U.S. Senate quest against Bill Gunter, state insurance commissioner.

In the 11th Congressional District contest, Dan Mica won a second term by garnering 61 percent of Palm Beach County's vote as opposed 31 percent won by Republican challenger Al Cooper.

In legislative races, Republican Tom Lewis replaced Phil Lewis, former senate president, who retired from office this year.

Lewis handily defeated Jeffrey Burck, Democrat, for the 27th District senate seat.

Also winning a state senate seat was J.W. "Bill" Stevens, who now represents District 29.

In state house races, Palm Beach County voters gave their needs of approval to Ray Liberti, Eleanor Weinstein, Jim Watt, Reid Moore Jr., Bernard Kinzel and Frank S. Messersmith. County voters also decided to keep all members of the Florida Supreme Court and the five judges from the district court of appeal appearing on the ballot for merit retention.

Of the five constitutional amendments on the ballot, Palm Beach County again followed state trends by approving four, but voting against Amendment No. 1, which would have abolished the Constitution Revision Commission.

In addition to having to obtain the results from 41 other precincts from the computer, election officials also had to tabulate more than 17,000 absentee ballots by press time.

Crate Expectations held for Will Museum exhibit

BELLE GLADE—A traveling exhibit entitled, "Crate Expectations," which focuses on the early years of Florida's citrus industry and featuring a selection of citrus crate labels, is now on display at the Lawrence Will Museum in the Municipal Library.

The exhibit is part of an outreach program sponsored by the office of Secretary of State George Firestone that places 18 museum exhibits on tour statewide.

Used to individualize growers' products and target specific markets, the labels illustrate many aspects of American culture and social history, Firestone said.

"Crate Expectations" is one of 18 traveling exhibits placed on statewide tour by the Museum of Florida History at Firestone's request. According to Firestone, the traveling exhibit program is designed to offer Floridians greater access to the state's cultural and historic resources.

Produced by the Museum of Florida History under the auspices of the Department of State, the citrus label exhibit will be on display at the Lawrence E. Will Museum through Nov. 30. It will then continue its tour through other parts of the state.

The museum, the Palm Beach County legislative delegation and the Department of State are cosponsoring the exhibit's appearance in Belle Glade.

Librarian Phyllis Lilly said the exhibit may be viewed during library hours, which are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Fridays; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Cans can earn Christmas cash

BELLE GLADE -- With the holiday season just around the corner, collecting all-aluminum beverage cans is an ideal way for area residents to earn extra cash for Christmas.

During November, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company pays cash for household aluminum every Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon at City Park, 500 West Canal Street.

Reynolds pays 23 cents a pound for aluminum cans and other clean aluminum items. In certain markets, Reynolds pays a bonus price depending on local market conditions. For further information, call toll-free 1-800-228-2525.

"Each year during November, we experience increased interest in recycling as many of our customers discover that money earned from recycling helps pay for Christmas gifts," explained Tom Draney, District Manager, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Co.

Recyclable aluminum includes such items as beverage cans, foil pie plates, frozen food and dinner trays, dip pudding and meat containers. Siding, gutters, storm door and window frames, and lawn furniture tubing are also recyclable. These items should be cut to lengths not exceeding three feet and bundled.

Gym gives Glades youth more punch

by Wayne
Wallace

"Why would someone want to learn how to beat someone else to a pulp?" a talk show host once asked an olympic boxer.

"For asking questions like that," should have been the fighters reply, but he instead had to explain to the uninformed host that boxing was not "beating someone to a pulp", but was in itself a form of art.

The youngsters at F&J Boxing Gym are just apprentices at the art, although their match record is better than most novices. These fighters, under the tutelage of Joe Taylor, learn early on that boxing, like any art form, was more than meets the eye — more than a punch and duck schoolyard brawl.

Although it will never be seen in any opera house, a boxing match is much like a ballet performance. Each individual must learn the proper way to advance, how to advance, how to retreat, how to "float like a butterfly", but most of all the trainees learn the hard "behind the scenes" work that must be put into any performance.

There are punching bags, weights and weight benches, exercise bicycles, mirrors to watch and measure speed and agility — the boxer's greatest assets — in addition to a full-size boxing ring where practice matches are held each Wednesday. The fighters are also on a jogging program, Taylor said.

Although Taylor's fighters come in all shapes, weights and sizes, there is usually no trouble scheduling a fight. The F&J gym has built a formidable record in South Florida and Taylor often piles as many fighters as will fit into a van and heads for a night of matches on the coast.

"What we're doing here is keeping a lot of kids off the streets," Taylor said. "You come in here any Wednesday night and we'll have 25 or 30 kids up there wanting to fight." And there's a lot more that hang around outside that I wish we could let in."

Taylor is currently tentatively scheduling F&J's next bout in Hialeah, but said he wished he could get more fights in Belle Glade. However city fees would make the bouts unfeasible to bring into the area, Taylor said.

MIGHTY MITES battle it out in the ring. At this age, the youngsters are only beginning to adjust to the weight of the gloves, not yet introduced to the genuine art of boxing.

KEEPING IN SHAPE is one of the most important points to remember for the aspiring boxer. Punching bags, weights and exercise machines are provided for the boxers.

GLIDING like ghosts across the ring, these two fighters jab and feint, resembling shadows dancing in the light.

IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

The House of Kings

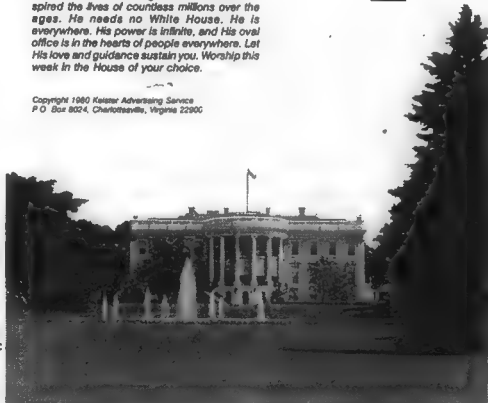

What stories could be told by the White House on Pennsylvania Avenue. It has seen men plucked from the ranks and lifted to the heights of power almost overnight; it has housed large and small families, fed them, entertained them, challenged them and watched them eventually depart to make way for newcomers.

Think of the secrets this House has heard — the hopes and plans for a nation's future. No doubt about it... the White House could fill many books with the stories it has witnessed.

Each president has been given a great privilege, as well as a grave responsibility. The opportunity to lead your nation as commander-in-chief is a rare one indeed.

There is another king who has led and inspired the lives of countless millions over the ages. He needs no White House. He is everywhere. His power is infinite, and His oval office is in the hearts of people everywhere. Let His love and guidance sustain you. Worship this week in the House of your choice.

KEEPING THE FAITH

BY THE REV. JOE ED MCGAHEY
Community United Methodist Church

It's only ACADEMIC at East Lake Middle

"First of all, then, I urge that entreaties and prayers, petitions and thanksgiving, be made on behalf of all men, for kings and all who are in authority, in order that we may lead a tranquil and quiet life in all godliness and dignity." 1 Timothy 2:1-2

I'm writing this just before the election, but it will come out in print after all the dust has settled, the campaigns will be over and the election will have been decided.

That is the beginning of new responsibilities for us in terms of prayer. I hope that each of us went to the election polls in prayer and voted out of God's direction.

Now comes the time to pray earnestly for our leaders, beginning with the man who is elected president. We have this responsibility whether or not we voted for the man who won. In fact, if we voted for the loser and are convinced that the wrong man was elected, then we ought to pray even harder for the one who is elected.

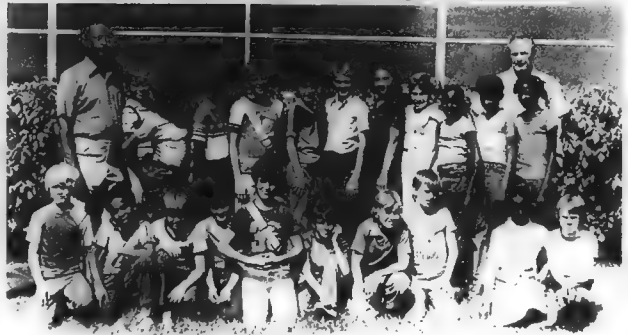

If we feel like the wrong man was put in office, then that means we believe he is going to need even more help from God to do the job and we had better be praying that he gets it in full measure.

Whoever is our President of these United States has a very tough job. As a nation we have some very serious problems. The moral level is very low as immorality has become acceptable to a great many people.

No one man is going to be able to make all the changes. He needs our prayer support as he is confronted with making decisions that he will have to make. We need to pray not only for our President, but that he will be surrounded by the best informed, intelligent, Christian advisors it is possible to find today. Many decisions in government are made, indeed have to be made, on the advice that comes from others who have the responsibility to gather facts and information about a situation and present them to the President. These advisors need our prayers, they often give more direction to the way our nation goes than most of us have any idea of. The President needs our prayer in his selection of key

HALLOWEEN IS a time for masquerades and make-up, for disguise and deception, and the students at Christian Day were no exception, as this clown demonstrates.

Spooks and witches attend CDS festival

BELLE GLADE — Witches, goblins, ghosts, trick and treats were all part of the fun at the Parent-Teacher Association annual Halloween Carnival held at Christian Day School last Thursday, Nov. 30.

Approximately 300 students, parents and members of the Glades community wound their way to the maze of good spirits, food, games, a haunted house, arts and crafts tables, and fun booths.

Mrs. Karen Corbin and Mrs. Pat McKee, coordinators of the carnival, along with Mrs. Arvine Bell, principal of the local school thank the parents, student and Christian Day school supporters for the long hours worked to make this annual event a huge financial success.

Att. Mason to speak

Donald Mason, Managing Attorney for the Belle Glade office of Florida Rural Legal Services, will speak at the Community Services Meeting Wed., Nov. 12 at Glades Office Building, 12:30 p.m.

Mason will speak on the role of his agency in a farm-working community pinpointing direct services to the clients.

Your next boat and motor: what kind

From the number of questions asked these past few days, it appears that many people are either considering replacing their present fishing rigs with new ones or buying a craft for the first time.

"What kind of an outfit should I get?" is hard to answer. Fishing craft are as varied as the people who use them. So are the waters they will be used upon.

Before you start looking for a boat, some hard reasoning is absolutely necessary. The following is intended as a guide:

(a) Where are you going to use the boat - big waters or small, calm water, fresh or salt? It makes a great deal of difference. You are going to have to make a choice between one suited to a specific situation or a more versatile craft useful in different types of water.

(b) How big a boat do you need? This depends on the size of the body of water, expected travel distance, number of passengers and the type of fishing you intend to do. It has been said that three in a boat for bass fishing, for example, is one too many. In panfishing, the more the merrier. You must decide whether the average load will be one to three or the whole family. Between selecting a boat that's too small and one that's bigger than minimal requirements, it makes sense to buy the bigger one. Care must be exercised in that you don't buy too much boat. Too much for you to handle and maintain, and too much for your pocket-book.

(c) Where will you keep it? In a marina or on a trailer? Learn the terms. You might decide you can live with a smaller boat.

AROUND THE BIG "O"

Lorne Rocicot

You may want to store it on dry land at a marina when not in constant use. Find out the going rates and service available to you.

(d) Ensure that the boat has the metal Boatbuilding Industry Association plate. The plate will show these figures: Maximum horsepower rating, number of people or maximum payload including net load of persons, motor and gear.

(e) Ask questions about small fishing boats (under 20 feet). What type of flotation is used? Is flotation impervious to contact with alcohol or petroleum products? Is it situated in the gunwales or high enough to keep the boat upright if swamped, or under the seats, floor, or in the bow too low, so that the boat will turn bottom-up. Will the boat stay afloat with a normal load, or support only the hull weight when flooded?

(f) Is it round, flat or V-bottomed? Can you sit in it hour after hour in comfort? Is there enough freeboard (height of side over the waterline) for use on the intended waters? Is the transom so low as to be dangerous or is there a well closed off by a bulkhead to keep the boat safe and dry?

(g) If you lean to aluminum boats, find out the gauge thickness of the hull metal. Are the seams finished - welded, riveted or bolted? Are these same seams reinforced? Is cast or stiff extruded aluminum at the bow and keel? Are edges and corners smooth and rounded?

(h) Are strong corner plates present on the transom, bow, keel and deck joints reinforced with extra laminations? If hardware is bolt-anchored into structural members or bolted through the hull with backing plates, this is satisfactory. Screwed-on hardware is just about useless in fiberglass hulls.

Another point for your consideration is that you may prefer a hull reinforced or built entirely of the newer aramid fibers (Kevlar). It is said to be five times stronger than steel, pound for pound.

Hulls with this material have an entirely different feel to them. No "hull ringing" in rough waters, a noticeably stiffer, more solid sensation, yet the boat remains among the quickest, fastest, most responsive available. They are much lighter in weight which can mean higher speeds with less motor, resulting in greater economy.

(i) What to trailer your boat? Make absolutely certain you get a trailer that fits your boat. There are some weird combinations seen along our highways. Too little trailer can be downright dangerous and sooner or later it will break down - always at the wrong time. It seems even the gel coat, the faster your boat will be in the water. And it will take less work to clean. It will also handle better at planing speeds.

(k) Make certain to ask about the fiberglass construction. Determine if the boat is made by hand lay-up or by production line mold pressing. The latter should cost less. In the structural reinforcement system, is wood or fiberglass used? What about the flotation? Is it added on or molded in? Are transom, bow, keel and deck joints reinforced with extra laminations? If hardware is bolt-anchored into structural members or bolted through the hull with backing plates, this is satisfactory. Screwed-on hardware is just about useless in fiberglass hulls.

There's a nip in the air, bass back on hitting streak

Hook, Line and Sinker

Buddy Norris

There is a nip in the air and the bass are back on a hitting streak. The fishing fans are starting to fill the Big "O" stadium and those big lunker bass are giving the crowds their money's worth.

Rodney Jones of Macleod, Ky. was rewarded for his efforts by his 9 day catch of 30 bass, including fish weighing 9-lbs. 14-oz., 8-lbs. 3-oz. and 8-lbs. even. Mr. Jones fooled these nice fish with a Wayne's 7 inch purple/chartreuse plastic worm.

A local bass fisherman, Garner Parrish, brought in a 7 1/2 pound bass caught on an undisclosed plastic worm. Raymond Gibbs of Ft. Lauderdale caught a 7 1/2 pound bass while fishing shiners in the Bay Bottom area. Finley Fata, another local fisherman caught a nice 1 pound, 2 ounce bass on a plastic worm. Lance Glaser, guide for Slim's Fish Camp, brought in 16 nice bass up to 10 pounds while fishing with his guide party.

The bass are still holding mostly in the peppergrass beds but a few are starting to be caught on the shorelines of Kreamer and Rita Islands.

Speckled perch fishing is still on the upswing with good limits being caught on minnows and jigs. The speck fishing is picking up in the rim canal north of the fish camp with fish up to 1 lb., 10 ounces being brought in. Good catches are still being reported in the rim canal from the fish camp south to Lake Harbour.

Our weekly "catch-a-big-un" contest was won this week by Rodney Jones of Kentucky with his 9 pound 14 ounce bass, and Ms. Margaretta Wiggins of Hollywood, with a nice 1 pound 10 ounce speck. Ms. Wiggins caught her winning speck while fishing on the dock beside Slim's. Her fish was weighed in with twenty minutes to go until the contest deadline.

Slim's Fish Camp will hold its first "Slim's Bass 'n' Classic" on Dec. 7. This tournament is open to anyone who would like to fish it. We will be charging $20 per person with a 100% payback to the winners. A boron/graphite rod will be given away for the larger bass weighed in. Applications are available at Slim's Fish Camp, Torrey Island. Good fishing.... Buddy Norris

Here's an unusual job for an adventuresome soul to try

The Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission has an unusual job opportunity for an adventuresome soul in the South Lake Okechobee area. The successful applicant will be subject to call at any time, day or night, and in any weather. The job is that of an alligator trapper.

Trappers are contractors to the Commission and are responsible for the catching of problem alligators. Only certain of these reptiles are trapped and those only when they pose a direct threat to people, livestock or property. All alligators are protected by both state and federal law and no public hunting, molesting or feeding of alligators is permitted.

Applicants for the trapping position must not have a criminal background, but must have a working knowledge of alligators.

For more information call Dr. Ron Cherry at 305-524-8125.

Area fishing report

Cooling breezes can be bad

By Lorne Rocicot

Cooling breezes are always welcome after the heat of summer. When they blow with a vengeance, however, they can certainly mess up the best laid fishing plans. This past few days it has depended upon just what area of the lake you fished in order to get your favorite "boney holes."

In many instances you couldn't. In talking to camp operators around the lake I did learn that those with patience and perseverance came up with good catches of bass, bluegill, some shellcracker and crappie. Windy conditions take some getting used to, but from now through April we can expect them frequently.

We are fortunate that there is almost always some place to fish except on some days when winds may exceed 25 miles per hour. Some of these sheltered places do not always hold fish. On the other hand, they can provide a real bonanza at times. Let's take a look around the lake and see what has been happening.

Vern Thacker of the Jolly Roger Marina in Clewiston tells us that before the winds got so high good catches of bass were coming dockside with a lot in the five- to seven-pound category. Some lunkers were also caught, including an eight-pounder on a live shiner by Webb Clark of Pennsylvania and a real hawg of 11 1/4 pounds caught by Bill Hillen of Louisville, Ky. on a plastic worm. Conditions permitting, the peppergrass areas have been popular. Protected edges have been the places where bass are too high for flats fishing.

Small jigs have been producing crappie in the deep holes off the rim canal fished deep to 14 feet. Some have been caught in the rim canal on Missouri minnows. Paul and Mrs. Miller of Louisville, Ky. have been bringing in catches of good sized bluegills from the Hayfield area as has Maury Weddle of Franklin, Ind. Worms and crickets have been the best baits.

The folks at Big Bass Lodge at Lakeport inform us that high winds have been a problem there the past few days. In spite of these conditions, a lot of bass to three and four pounds have come in. Live shiners and plastic worms fished in the Moonshine Bay and Monkey Bay areas were what the bass wanted. Crappie (speckled perch) have been showing up in the Moore Haven and Harney Pond canals. They are above average in size and are responding to live Missouri minnows. Also in the Harney Pond waters some good catches of bluegills and shellcrackers have been made on live worms.

Rick Barber of Buckhead Ridge Marina reports that the winds in their area put a damper on the fishing, though bass up to eight pounds have come in. Spinner baits and plastic worms have been the most popular lures. Rick says a good place to try is the Tin House Cove area with the foregoing lures and live shiners. Care is advised as the water is very clear and the fish speak easily. Very few crappie or shellcrackers have been seen. Bluegill have been active in the rim canal adjacent to the marina where, for example, Mrs. McBrier of West Palm Beach made excellent catches of large jills using beetle spins.

So, no matter the weather, there are always some fish somewhere ready to respond to your efforts. Don't keep them waiting.

Hunting season is ready to begin

TALLAHASSEE - The General Florida hunting season begins Nov. 8 and sportsmen are reminded to be properly licensed and follow the rules and regulations of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

"We encourage all hunters to be sure they are carrying the proper licenses and meet the various state and federal regulations required of hunters," said Major Kenneth L. Stivers, director of the Office of Informational Services for the Commission.

Sportsmen said outdoorsmen may purchase their hunting licenses at the office of county tax collectors or their registered subagents. All hunters must possess a hunting license except children under 15 and Florida residents age 65 and older.

He said there are a variety of licenses available to persons for the hunting season.

For residents, costs of the statewide hunting license (series K) are $11.50 and home county hunting (series L), $4.50. For non-resident licenses for statewide annual hunting (series I), the cost is $50.50 and statewide, 10 day continuous license (series M), $15.50.

Special license include aliens hunting, $50 and a guide license (series Y), $10 (required for guiding hunting parties). The license for hunting on licensed private hunting preserves (resident and non-resident) cost $5.50 (series H).

Various permits are available from the office of the county tax collector or their registered subagents including the wildlife management area permits for all hunters between the ages of 15 and 65 years (series MA) at $5. Underage permits (14 years of age or younger) cost $2.50 (series UP). Hunters aged 65 years and older require only a senior citizen certificate which is issued without charge from the office of the tax collector.

An archery permit or a muzzleloader permit costs $5. A recreational permit is $2 and covers three days of use on specific state wildlife management areas for non-hunting purposes.

"Sportsmen are encouraged to call the toll-free numbers of their nearest commission regional office for additional information on hunting regulations," Stivers said.

The regional offices and toll-free numbers are for Lakeland, 1-800-282-8002; Ocala, 1-800-342-9620; West Palm Beach, 1-800-432-2046; Lake City, 1-800-342-8105 and Panama City, 1-800-342-1676.

The program included a welcome to the parents from Dr. Harris Blumberg, principal of the school, and a brief introduction on what Title I program services are.

Mrs. Dorothy Rhodes, Hattie Brock, Audrey Kirkpatrick and Christine Bordin shared with the parents facts about the Communications Skills Centers.

Lloyd Spiro, Affective Education Counselor, and Dale Seider, Title I Math Coordinator, also gave highlights on the services they offer to the students.

Keeping the faith--

Then as we pray for the President we need to pray also for other elected officials -- those serving on a national, state, county and local level. They too are confronted with sometimes hourly decisions that affect our lives.

Each of us ought to include on our prayer list several people in government that we pray for by name everyday. If we know the person, that will help us to understand how to pray for him or her.

Prayer is a very powerful force, a force so powerful that used rightly it can change the direction of history. It is up to us to make sure that we are doing it. "I urge that entreaties and prayers, petitions and thanksgiving be made on behalf of... all who are in authority..."

Boxing

"For one thing, it costs $300 or $400 just to get a permit to have the fight. And then we'd have to pay another $150 for three main events and $25 for any other fights. Those are professional rates. Most of these kids have very little experience and these fights are the only way they can get their name around. The city is definitely the big hold-up right now," Taylor said.

Despite the problems there is no doubt the unknown amateurs at P&J will continue to jab, swing and feint the hours away, dreaming of the day their name appears on the Madison Square Garden marquee.
